Moving dates, ribbon cutting set for new Elections Center

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE, AUGUST 17, 2017:

NEW BRAUNFELS — In a move that will provide more space and easier access for voters, the Comal County Election Office is preparing to open later this month in its new home on North Seguin Avenue in New Braunfels.

The new Comal County Elections Center will open at 396 N. Seguin Ave. on Thursday, Aug. 24. The office will be closed Aug. 21-23 for the move. A ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house has been scheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 13.

“As Comal County continues to break records for voter registrations and ballots cast, we are excited to move into a much-needed building that will serve our constituents for years to come,” said Comal County Clerk Bobbie Koepp, who also serves as the county’s elections administrator. “This will be a great benefit for Comal County voters.”

The office will move into a 5,835-square-foot building formerly occupied by the insurance company TCOR and purchased by the county in 2015. Renovation of the facility began in July.
